

THE Great War & Its Legacy
1914-1918

THE GREAT WAR AND MODERN AFRICA

Askaris, the Ghost General and the Camouflage Zebras

DR. MATTHEW SCHAUER

Assistant Professor, OSU History

Matthew Schauer is an assistant professor of the History of the British Empire at Oklahoma State University. The focus of his talk will be an overview of major events in Africa during the war and examine the brutal nature of the African campaign. He will also explore the experience of war for the hundreds of thousands of African soldiers, known as askaris, and porters who served in Africa and on the Western Front.

Oct. 20

T W E N T Y S I X T E E N

3 : 3 0 P M

PEGGY V. HELMERICH BROWSING ROOM

Edmon Low Library, OSU Stillwater

This series commemorates the 100th anniversary of the Great War with discussions on all the aspects of life that changed in the aftermath of WWI. This series looks at the wider impact of the War on life and culture of the US and world, and also focuses in on its impact on Oklahoma, the Payne county region and OAMC. Sponsored by the OSU Library, the W.P. Wood Professorship and the OSU Department of History. Learn more at info.library.okstate.edu/greatwar.